

Peer Education

Piri Reis Vocational and Technical Anatolian High School

- Peer education can be practiced in every school in Turkey.
- All teachers are trained about peer education.
- Most of the teachers do not practice it since it necessitates more sacrifice and effort.
- The teachers that practice it, do it unmethodically.
- Peer education is a part of The Methods and Technics in the curriculum of The Ministry of Education.

- It is necessary for school administrations in the Turkey to encourage teachers and be a model for practicing peer education.
- The reason is: teachers are not willing to implement new and other methods and technics but only use old and traditional ones.
- This can be practiced gradually starting from primary school.
- It can be used for academic success in the schools where the target is higher education and for improving vocational skills in technical schools.

- In addition, it will ease to detect and help the students who have mental, familial or economic problems, feel depressed, and suffer peer oppression.
- At the same time, it will contribute improving sense of belonging to the school.
