Teaching Students with Special Needs

- ❖ Prepare to teach the students with special needs you may have in your classroom using new suggestions and guidelines for accommodating and modifying your lessons to meet the needs of everyone.
- ❖ Various types of special needs students may exhibit along with strategies to help your special needs students be successful.

- ❖ Having the opportunity and pleasure of working with special needs students in your classroom may be difficult.
- ❖ There will be some problems with accommodation and modification. An accommodation is a device, material or support process that will enable a student to accomplish a task more efficiently. Modification refers to changes to the instructional outcomes; a change or decrease in the course content or outcome.

In our School

We have two students who need special supporting. The teachers concern about them. It is prepared a special curriculum which has basic knowledge for them. But it doesn't matter how much they learn. The aim is getting involved in social life. The teachers, counselling teacher and head teacher work together to make him and her be ready for life. After graduating they will be able to stand on their own and work somewhere and earn their own money.

At school we should have a room for these students. Sometimes the teachers can deal with them privately.

Mavibahçe-İyilik Atölyesi

It's a kind of foundation. A volunteer opened a cafeteria for the children with down syndrome. They work and serve the customers at this cafe and earn their own money. By changing their life style, they have a piece to complete the puzzle in their life. We should support these enterprises.

WE SHOULD ACCEPT THEM AN INDIVIDUAL LIKE US.
